

VACATION TIME

Vacation is a time to relax. But when you start wondering if everything is OK at your house, intrusive thoughts can creep in and stand in the way of your good time. Good thing you have the Alarm.com app on your smart phone so you can actually program reminders to lock the back door or close the garage. Free up your headspace so you can get back to enjoying yourself!

If you have to leave “Spot” at home, you can also set up a sitter alert by giving them their own code to confirm that your trusted companion is safe and cared for. You can even create a no-show alert that will only disturb you if the sitter doesn’t show or with smart video, take a peek and see what Spot is doing or shouldn’t be doing.

Get alerted quickly if something goes wrong

When your house is unoccupied, small problems can escalate into large ones. A sudden water leak that can immediately turn into a disaster or a door left unlocked can blow open with the wind and stay open overnight. A smart home security system can detect such events and alert you when they happen enabling you to make an emergency call to a friend or neighbor and send them straight to your home.

Let a visitor into the house

If you're wondering how the emergency plumber is going to get in, thankfully your smart lock makes it easy to give immediate access to your home. You can verify a visitor's identity with a video doorbell and allow them into your home to handle the repair and when they leave all from your phone.

Life does go on even when you escape to paradise. Delayed packages show up and family members may need to borrow things. All this can be controlled through your app which makes spare keys a thing of the past.

Save energy when you go; return to comfort

The beauty of a smart home is that all devices can communicate and cooperate with each other. This makes your family's return from vacation a welcoming event especially when you can control your thermostat to a not too-hot or too-cold home and turn the lights on so you can bring in all your luggage and vacation treasures!

Welcome Home!
